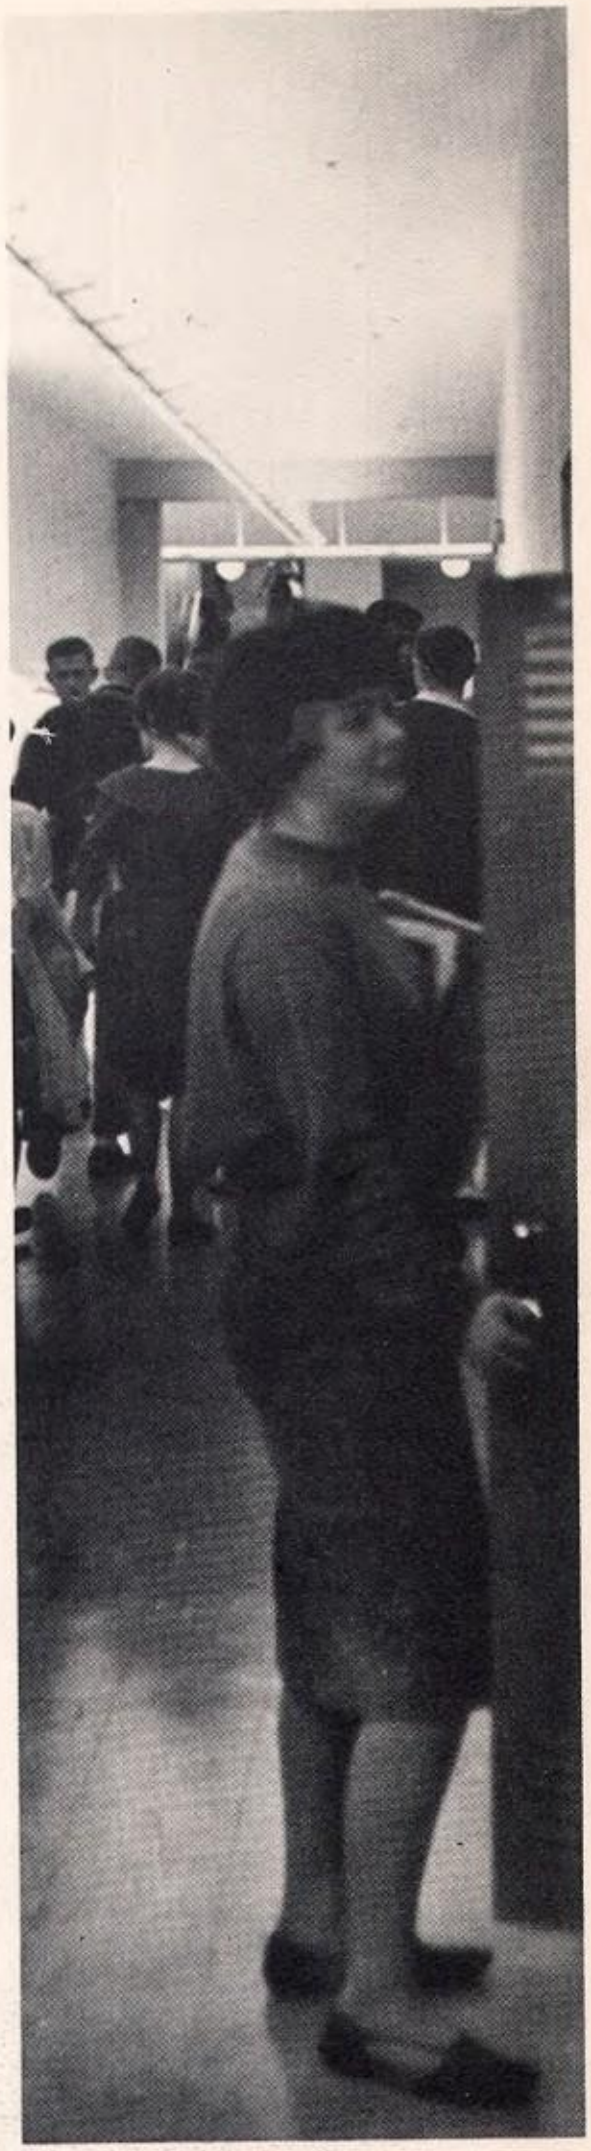
A Call to Arms

A call to arms!
Arise,
Array thyself for battle
And go forth!



Here,
At the battle-field
each soldier proves his worth.
The dragging day is long with only bread to break the weary hours.
Only bread--and knowledge that the battle soon will end.

A victory!
Now comes our dance
our song!
One more day is conquered
and in the night our happiness is sweet.
Each soldier knows
His is the right to laugh
to rest
to fight.

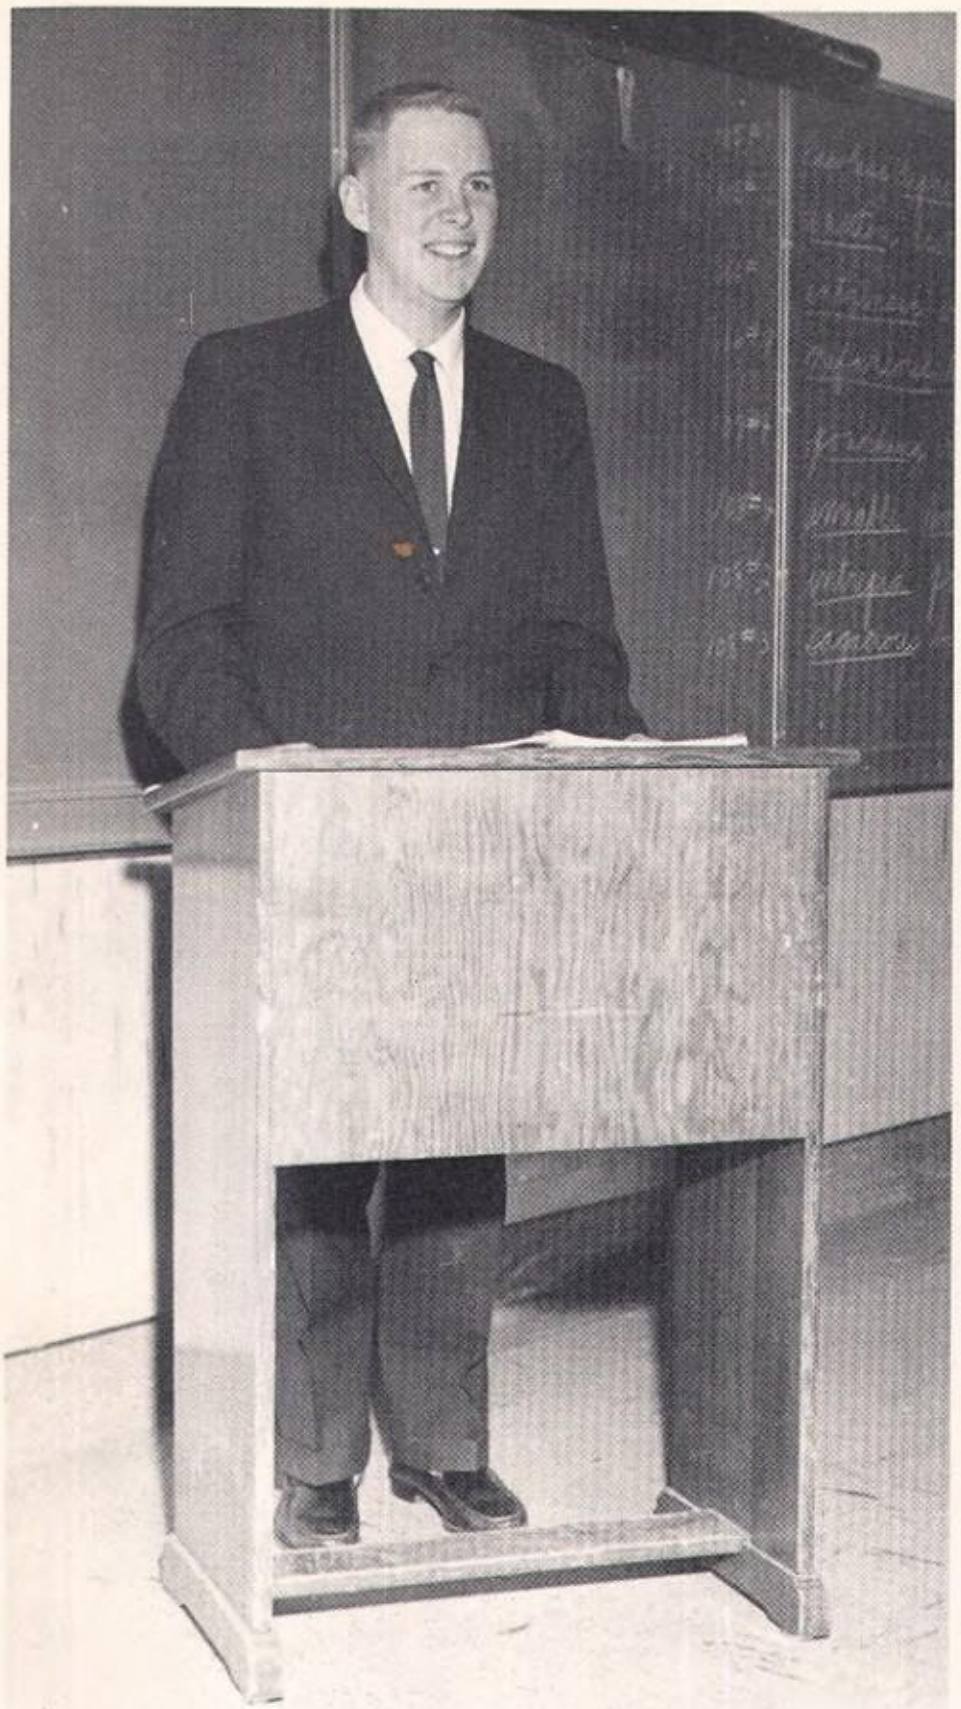
Seniors



President Dave Hansen

Secretary Norma Newgard

The Senior Class Officers had a very busy and active year. Each member of the cabinet worked hard to make their senior year the best that Jefferson has ever seen. To make this wish come true, the officers worked together on all services and activities. The senior class can well be proud of their leaders, as they truly succeeded in the task that they set out to accomplish.

Class Party Proves To Be ". . . a Thriller"

Spooks, spiders, and suspense were the motif of the Senior Class Party held in December. Dancing, entertainment, and fun highlighted the evening.

Senior Reception Depicts "Road to Rainbow"

Senior Jim Mellama joins in refreshment with some of the many parents who came to the reception to meet teachers and class leaders.

The Senior Class of 1962 filled their year with many activities. In December their class party, "It's A Thriller," lured its guests into a room of spiders and mystery. The class potluck in February featured an "Evening with the Mac-Beth's." For a money-making project, members sold Jefferson stationery.

In March the class held the annual Senior Reception. This event highlights the activities of the class throughout its four years at Jeff and gives parents and teachers the opportunity to meet one another. On April 6-7 the Seniors presented their production of "Whatcha Callit Square." Written and produced by this enterprising group, it told the story of struggles of an actor and a dancer. Termed as a "musical dramedy," some 75 students took part in this original and unique play.

Inhabitants of "Whatchacallit Square" were portrayed by a talented senior cast of seventy-five.

Skillful Administrators Guide School

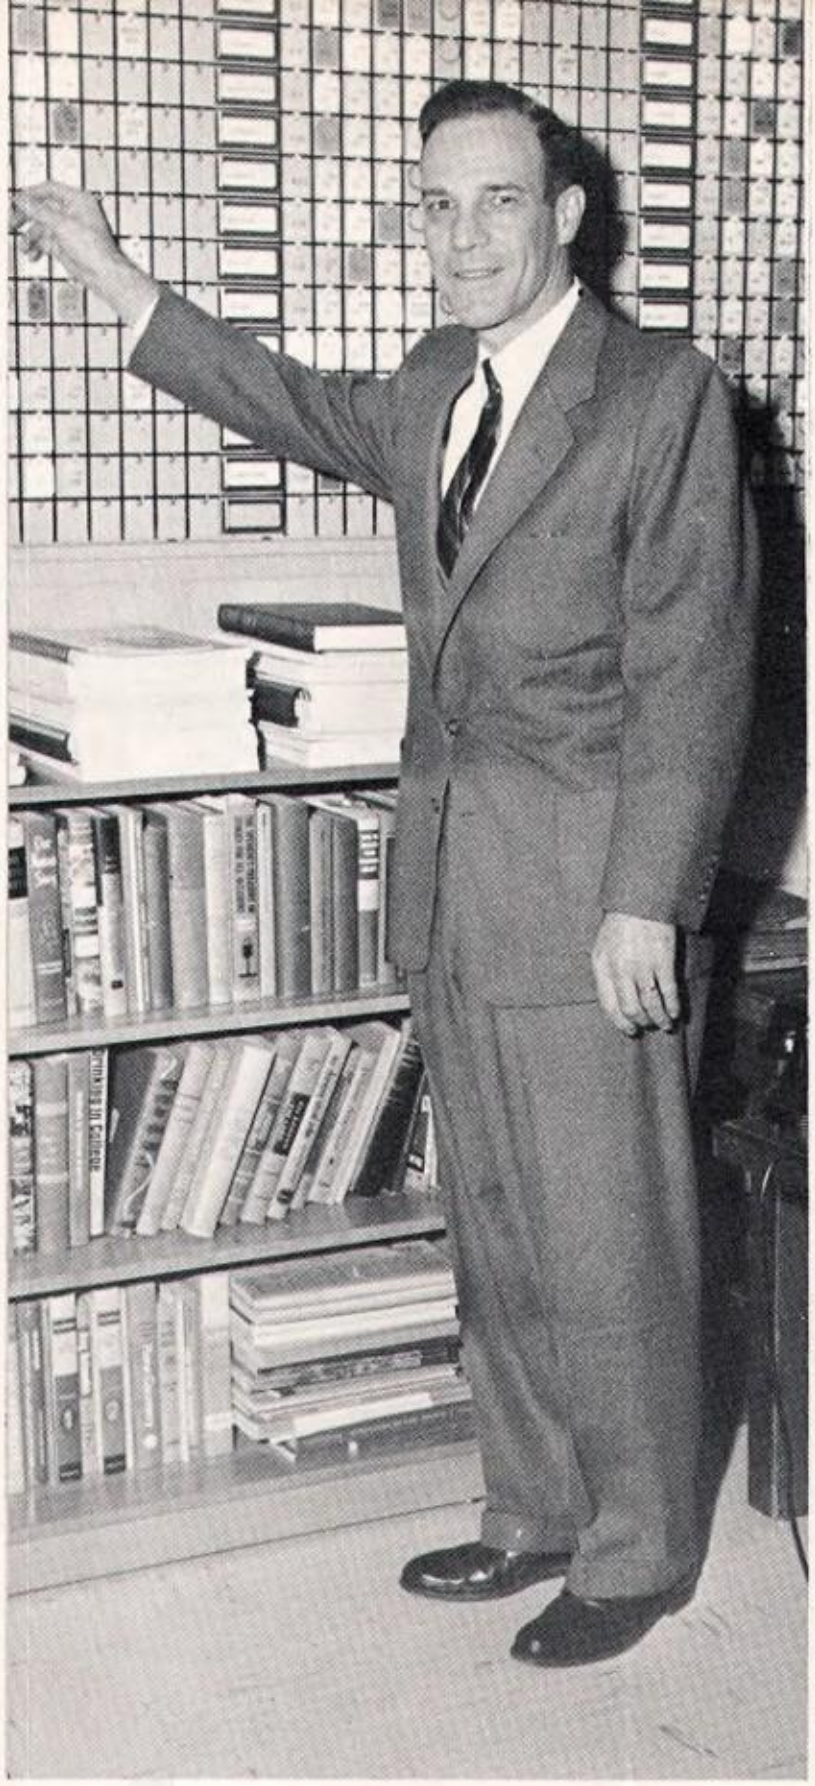
DOROTHY FLEGEL

Administrative Vice Principal

A prime responsibility of Jefferson, or of any other high school, is to so guide and stimulate its students that each will find and develop his individual abilities and talent toward the end that real, personal satisfactions will be achieved and worthy service be given to the community, state and nation.

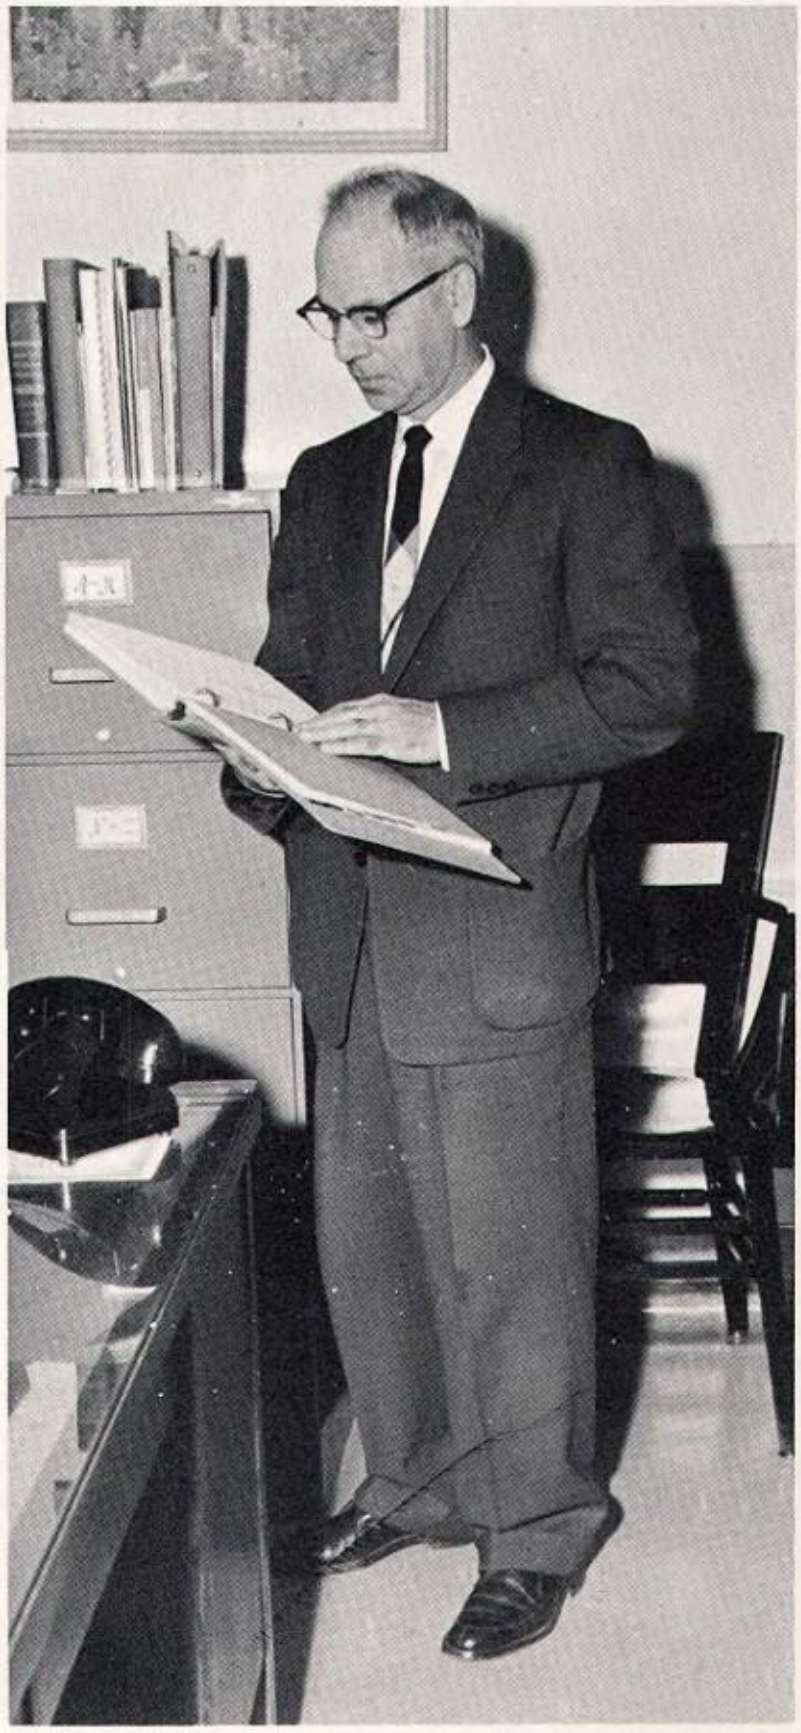
This objective, however, has little chance for fulfillment unless each one of you utilizes the opportunities available within both the school and the community and does, at all times, put forth the best efforts of which he is capable. The really critical question, then, each of you must answer for himself is: "Am I making the very most of my educational opportunities?" Your own sincerity of purpose will, in effect, determine whether or not you can answer this question in the affirmative. If your answer is in the negative, must it remain so?

PRINCIPAL, ROY O. MALO



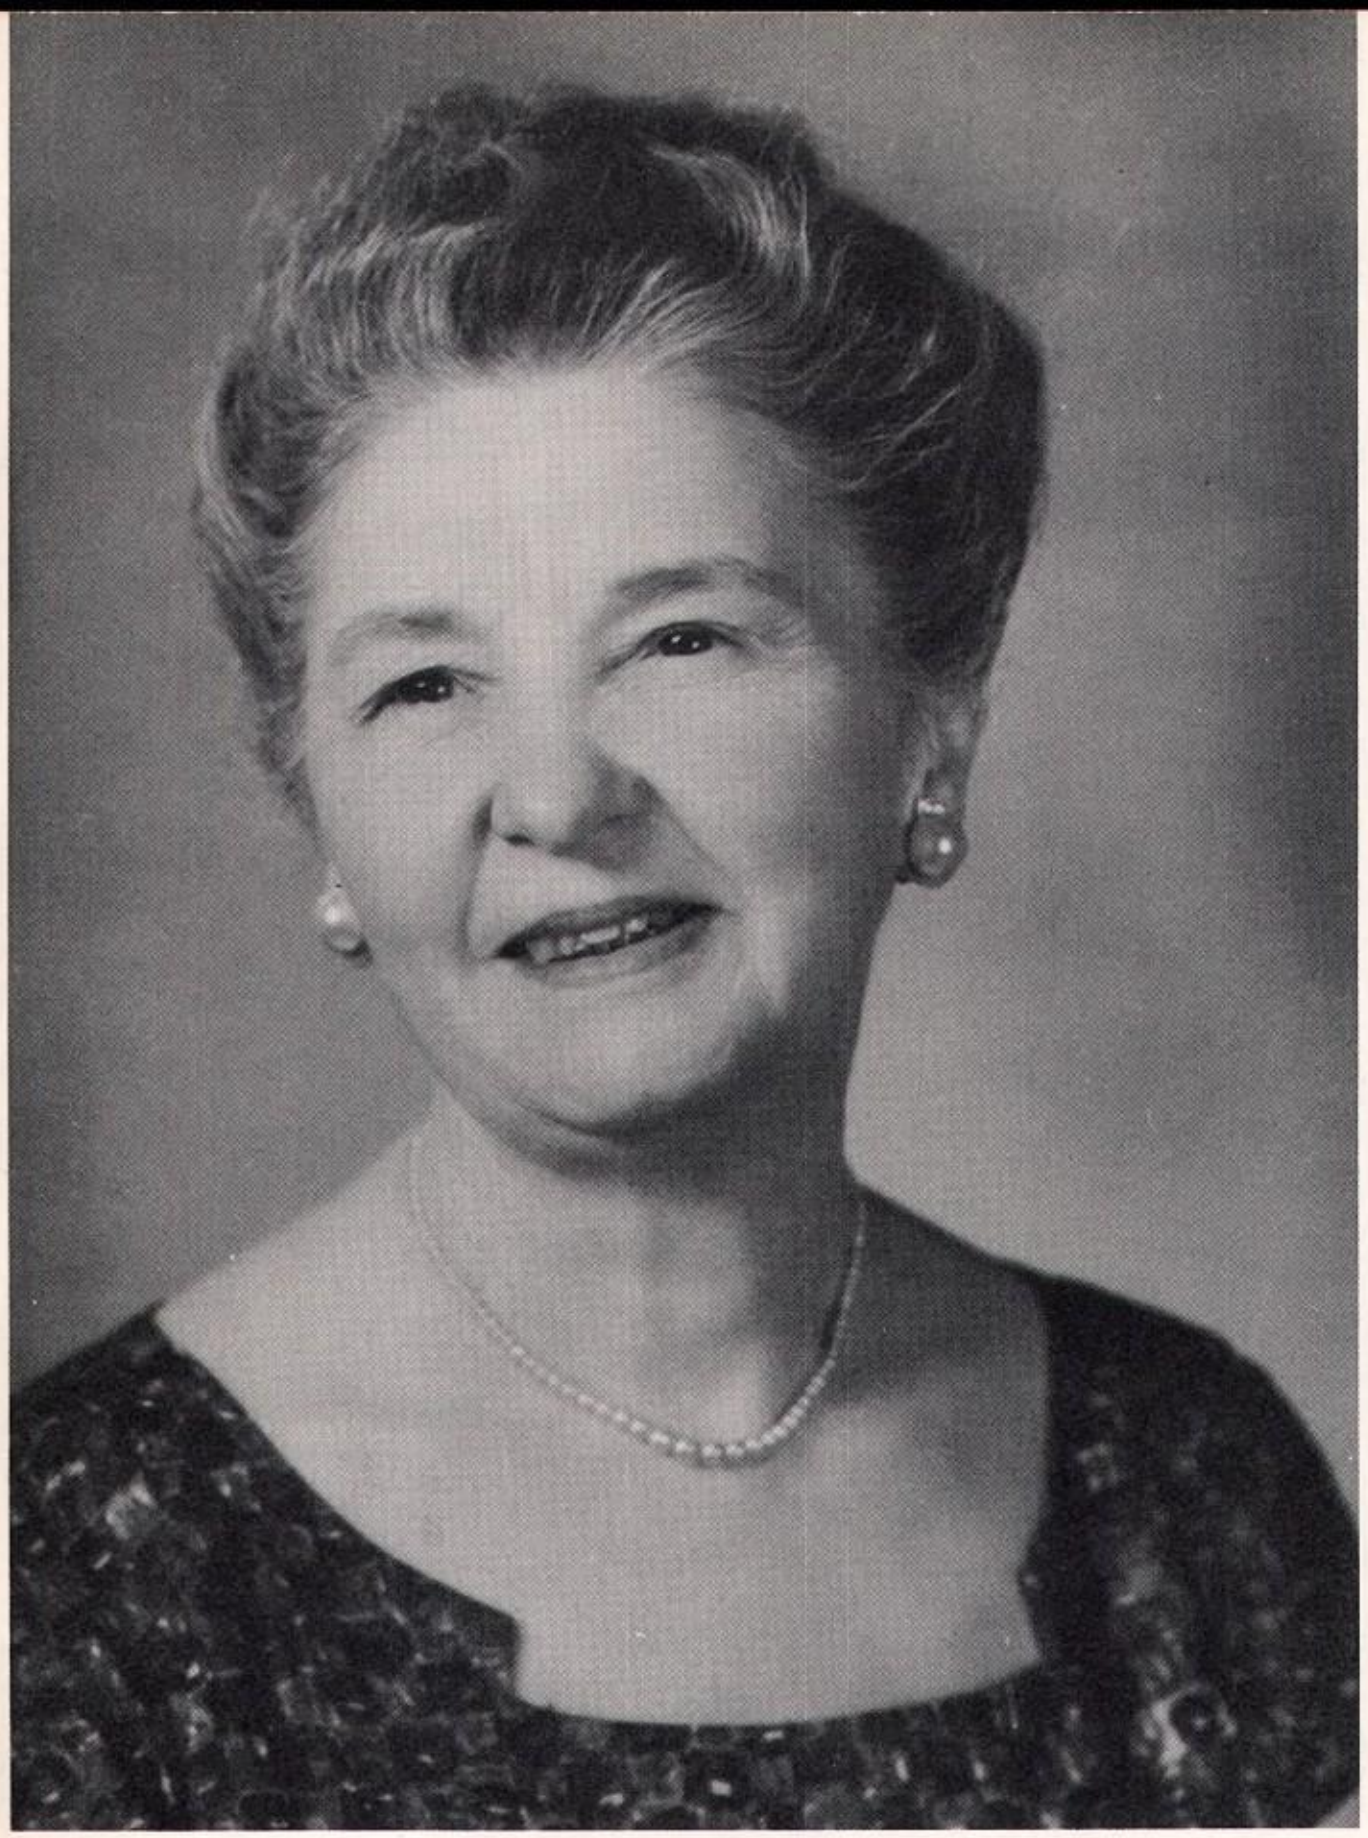
WILLIAM KNOUFF,

Curriculum Vice Principal



JACK KING,

Administrative Vice Principal



If we desire to speak our mind and heart
Of one who ends her service to this our school,
We need no jingling rhyme, no dancing rhythm
But rather steady lines made strong by truth.

An institution needing man or woman
To solve its problems, bear its load, advance
Its purposes, will sift and test and scan
Before it makes a choice.

So Jefferson High
Sifted, tested, scanned, and chose Miss Flegel
For that high office demanding heart and brain,
Courage, tenacity, standards reaching the stars,
Organizational skill, and, toning all,
A tolerance born of wisdom.

Through the years
This fortunate school has had from her such serv
And, for full measure, she has given us
A wealth of friendship far beyond computing.

The time has come in which we must acknowle
Our debt to her, and say in simple words,
"Your worth to us was more than we can tell
For you and all you did, our truest thanks."

Takes Leave of

Jefferson's Halls After Thirty-nine Years

Of Dedicated Service

Retiring Teacher Leaves Jefferson Classrooms

MRS. AUDREY COONS

If you ask her how long she has been at Jeff, Mrs. Audrey Coons will always cross her fingers and answer "ninety-nine years." A typing and shorthand teacher in the Business department, she taught the Distributive Education classes for several years. In these she coordinated with student and employer to start many seniors toward a promising business career. For twenty-two years she served as a member of the faculty social committee.

Mrs. Coons came to Jefferson in 1927. Filled with ideas, enthusiasm, and pep, she has helped organize and sponsor numerous money-making projects. One of the most successful was the Hi-Jinx of 1940.

On June 14 Mrs. Coons retires. Of her future plans she said, "I am going to spend the rest of my days in a bright, colorful little cottage where it is quiet and peaceful--where I can finish the novel I started years ago."

English Students Learn ABC's of Their Language

RENNIE, DAVID: B. A., McGill University, Canada; M. A., Pacific University; graduate study, Portland State College; teaches junior and senior English; coaches swim team.

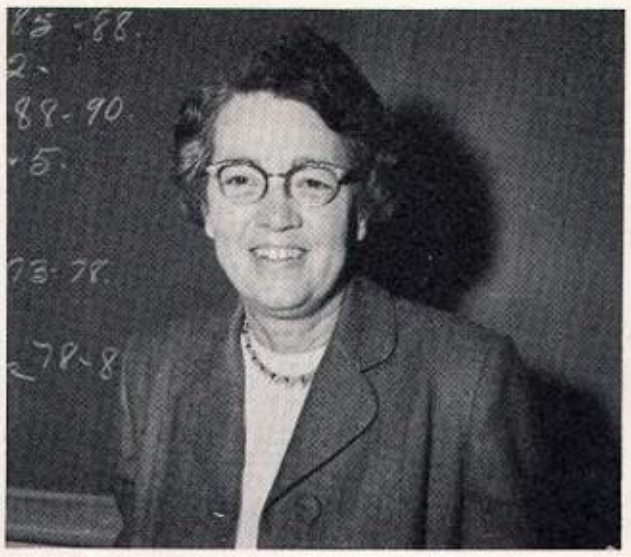
SCHMIDT, STANLEY: B. S., University of Oregon; graduate work, Portland State College; teaches beginning and advanced Speech, and English; advises Forensics, K. B. P. S. Radio Coordinator, cooperative committee(secretary); Speech Department Chairman; Business Manager.

This year our English classes offer students the opportunity to select the courses that will help them best meet their future needs.

Included in this department are Drama, Speech, English, Effective Reading (better known as EER), and the Jeffersonian and Spectrum staffs. Our English Department, however, teaches more than the customary basic reading and writing skills. An experiement is being tried with a class in Syntax, a modern, structual approach to our language.

EER is a speedreading course available to upper-classmen. This relatively new course teaches the students how to read faster and retain more of what he has read, as well as enlarge his vocabulary.

EVANS, DAVID: B. A., Macalester College; teaches journalism, English; advises the Jeffersonian.



KIMBRELL, ELMA: B. A., Willamette University; graduate study, University of Oregon; teaches junior English; Scholarship Chairman.

MARDESIC, SAL: B. A., University of Portland; teaches first, second and third year Russian, sophomore English, Educational Enrichment; advises Usher Corps.

VAN FLEET, MARY: B. A., Reed College; M. A., Reed College; teaches English.

WILLIAMSON, DAVID: B. A., College of Puget Sound; graduate work, University of Washington, Reed College; teaches sophomore, junior English; advises Spectrum staff.

Jeff's new Drama Department head, Mr. Biggs, has made a lasting impression on the students in his first year at Jeff. Under his leadership, a Christmas play, written by the students, was presented to an appreciative audience. Later, Alice In Wonderland enchanted an open audience in two series of performances.

Mr. Schmidt has led many students in writing and presenting their first speeches in his speech sections. Students learn how to speak pleasantly and effectively by giving speeches then using constructive criticism to improve their speeches.

HENDERSON, DALE: B. A., Colorado State College; M. A., Colorado State College; teaches Senior Social Studies; advises Young Democrats.

Students in Social Studies courses travel the path of knowledge that leads them to an understanding of our world. The path is neither short nor easy. In the sophomore year, the student traces the history of Western man, from Roman times to present day Europe. Particular emphasis is placed on the study of the background in European history. This is put to use by the junior as he surveys American History. When the student reaches his senior year, he uses the knowledge of previous Social Studies courses as he studies the contemporary problems of American life and society.

As important as knowledge is, skills are not neglected in the Social Studies classes. Students learn to think critically and analyze city, state, country, and world problems. Not stopping with these, they learn to acquire that needed sense of the chronological in historical events.

As a result of the high school curriculum study known as the Kitzhaber Study, "pilot classes" for the college bound student are now being offered to the Social Studies classes throughout the city. The Demos have the chance this year to enter into this program. Two sophomore Social Studies classes are trying their hand at United States History, currently a junior offering. One group of seniors is trying the new problems course which soon may become a junior offering.

Teachers Prepare Frosh for Future Years at Jeff

Cess class has trouble spots pointed out for them in their study of Africa.

Our youngest Demos are introduced to thei progressive world in a two-hour program c combined English-Social Studies. Here th freshman becomes acquainted with his neigh bors across the seas in Europe and Asia, i Africa, and the Pacific. He learns not onl from the pages on the history book, but als from such media as the newspaper, the maga zine, radio, television, and films. Thus h learns of his integral relationship to the worl around him.

He shares the adventures of Odysseus an the one-eyed Cyclops, lives the youthful an rebellious escapades of Huckleberry Finn, an takes delight in the sophisticated comedy of Midsummer Night's Dream. Thus, with th addition of the drama, the ballad and poetry, h enlarges his understanding of human exper ience.

A new approach to English in the form o linguistics has been introduced in a pilot class Here descriptions of language as it is used i everyday speech rather than strict grammatica rules are studied.

The department's extended session each da with one teacher gives the freshman an overal look at his world and affords him an easie adjustment to high school life.

Math Courses Stimulate Students' Minds

Add, subtract, multiply, divide. These are the familiar words heard throughout first year math courses. In the second year of math equations, sums, theories, and the use of cosines and tangents occupy the students. Through Geometry, another course taught at Jefferson, students learn how to prove triangles congruent, to make constructions using only a straight edge and compass, and how logic, learned in math, can be applied in every day life.

The recent interest in rocketry has placed greater emphasis on mathematics as used in science. The knowledge of mathematics, in fact, is a useful knowledge for any student who plans to go to college and enter a profession. To further this knowledge that the student needs to acquire, the math department now offers a new course for the first time at Jefferson. This new course, (consisting of modern and matrix algebra), teaches new concepts in mathematics. It includes the study of sets and vectors and the new matrix algebra.

To help the senior build the competence he needs for the work-a-day world, Refresher and Consumer Math courses are offered.

In Mrs. Scott's senior math class students are given an opportunity to solve problems before the class.

Hippocrates, Galileo, Hooke, Curie. These names are famous because of the parts they played in the drama of science. What would the world be like without an Aristotle, Pasteur, Einstein, or Salk? Whether or not students plan to be scientists, their interests will find a place in the courses offered at Jeff.

"There is something in chemistry for every individual!" Here situations are created whereby students use their utmost abilities. They explore such things as matter, compounds, and atomic structure. One chemistry lab was reorganized, with the emphasis being placed on laboratory work and written observations.

Biology students may collect insects or explore the world of a drop of water through a microscope. Also, big changes are coming to biology as a result of experimentation with new approaches.

The mysteries of light, motion, force, and energy in our physical world open themselves to the physics students. Likewise the physical science student explores the earth sciences and learns to apply them to his every-day life.

Teachers Develop Musical Talents of Students

BRADFORD, CHARLES: B. A., Washington State College; M. M., Lewis and Clark College; teaches Band, Orchestra, Ensemble; Department Chairman; advises Dance Band, instrumental music activities; advises Hi-Note Club.

LOTZ, MERLE: B.M.E., M. M., Drake University; teaches junior, senior Choir, Ensemble; advises choral music activities.

The haunting strains of music from "Exodus" filled the auditorium air in the final climax of the orchestra assembly. Featuring various kinds of music to please all students, the orchestra played such contrasting pieces as "Rosamund Overture" and "American Patrol". Complete with turkeys for the occasion, the Ensemble delivered a peppy "I Got Turkey" for the Thanksgiving assembly.

Students having an interest in or an ear for music may enroll in a variety of courses and participate in such activities as already mentioned. Those who wish to take instrumental music for the first time may often find such less familiar instruments as percussion, tuba, and flute available at the school. Positions on the Dixieland and Dance bands, choral and instrumental ensembles, and Senior Choir are available on a competitive basis. These require ability and ambition as well as a serious interest in music.

COONS, AUDREY: B. A., Oregon State College; teaches Business Education.

"Take a letter Miss Jones..." is a phra many girls who are taking part in Jeff's Busine Education program hope to hear in the future

Business Education is valuable to every st dent from typing for personal use to comple training for a responsible stenographic positio A student's general education is not really con plete until he receives enough training to enab him to perform everyday business activities This training should include the principles of ou business structure, skills, and experience oral and written communication.

Special skill training in the areas of typing shorthand, bookeeping, and business machine are provided. The Distributive education cours offers actual on-the-job experience to intereste students, giving them the opportunity to gain ex perience and earn money at the same time. Th Business Education courses also attempt to trai students for greater competence and understand ing in the economic phases of life.

Physical Education Keeps Students

Gym class watches Pam enthusiastically as they wait for their turn on the trampoline.

President Kennedy has, since hi inauguration, placed a spot-light o physical unfitness in the youth c America. The typical teen-ager, h stresses, cannot pass the averag physical fitness tests. Our Physica Education Department is very muc aware of this problem and is trying t correct it. Physical Education is requir ed for all freshmen and sophomores, an is elective for upperclassmen.

Part of the lack of physical fitness i due to the convenience of just hopping int the car rather than walking the thre blocks to the store or eight blocks t school. The conveniency is no excuse for the lack of exercise, for the growing adolescent needs exercise to aid his body in its proper development.

Our Physical Education Departmen is built around this fact. Students lear the fundamentals of many sports, bu more important, they learn fundamenta exercises which can be used all throug their lives.

Student Interest Grows in Foreign Language Fields

FRAY, ENA: B. A., Columbia University; M. A., City College of New York; teaches first, second, third year French.

KILBORN, MARIAN: B. ED., University of Washington; M. Ed., University of Washington; teaches Spanish; Senior Girl's Counselor; advises Philia, senior class activities.

Bonjour! Strasvee! Buenas dias Salve! Guten Tag! Foreign languag classes ring with cheery hello's an welcomes.

To understand our fellow man is o utmost importance in our modern world The belief that we "speak as we think" thus "think as we speak" has been prove time and time again. As we learn a ne language, we learn to think as a native o that land. We begin to realize how man' environment, culture and heritag affects him.

In the first year of Jeff's languag courses, fundamentals of vocal an practical phrases are studied. Th second year finds the student improvin his fluency and studying the backgroun of language and its people. Third an fourth years use advanced readin material. Records and tapes aid ora speaking.

Whether he takes a foreign languag becuase he is interested in travel, history viewpoints, or the language itself, th Jeff student finds a variety of course offered.

NEWELL, ROBERT: B. A., Indiana Arts; B. Ed., Washington State College; M. A. Ed., Washington State College; teaches Drafting, Electricity.

THIRINGER, EDWIN: B. A., Eastern Washington College of Education; M. Ed., Oregon State College; teaches Woodworking.

SHEFLER, JOHN: M. A., Washington State; teaches Wood Shop.

Future Homemakers Learn Fundamentals of Living Better Electrically

Many modern housewives gasp with wonder at the eautifully shining new appliances, dishes, and cook-ware. The smells issuing from the ranges tantalize he nose, while the sinks, refrigerators, freezer, and utomatic dishwasher are a welcome sight to any tired ook. The speedy clothes washer, dryer, ironer, and ewing machines also help the Home Economics De-artment teach our students how to care for a home, hildren, and themselves.

Shop Courses Improve Students' Coordination of Hand and Mind

A person entering the industrial arts department will hear such noises as the whir of electric saws or the "beep-beep" of the do-it-yourself radios. Such courses as drawing, metalworking, woodworking, and electronics provide the students with the basic purpose of the course, which is to teach the students the proper care of all equipment. This aids all the students who wish to better themselves as they leave high school and enter the trade world.

SIVER, HELEN: B. S., University of Montana; teaches Home Economics; Home Economics Department Chairman.

STRAM, LAURA: B. S., Linfield College, teaches Home Economics; advises Philo.

SPENCER, MARY: B. S., North Dakota State University; teaches Home Economics and second year English.

WEATHERSPOON, HENRY: B. S., Eastern Oregon College; Head Librarian; visual aids, book room.

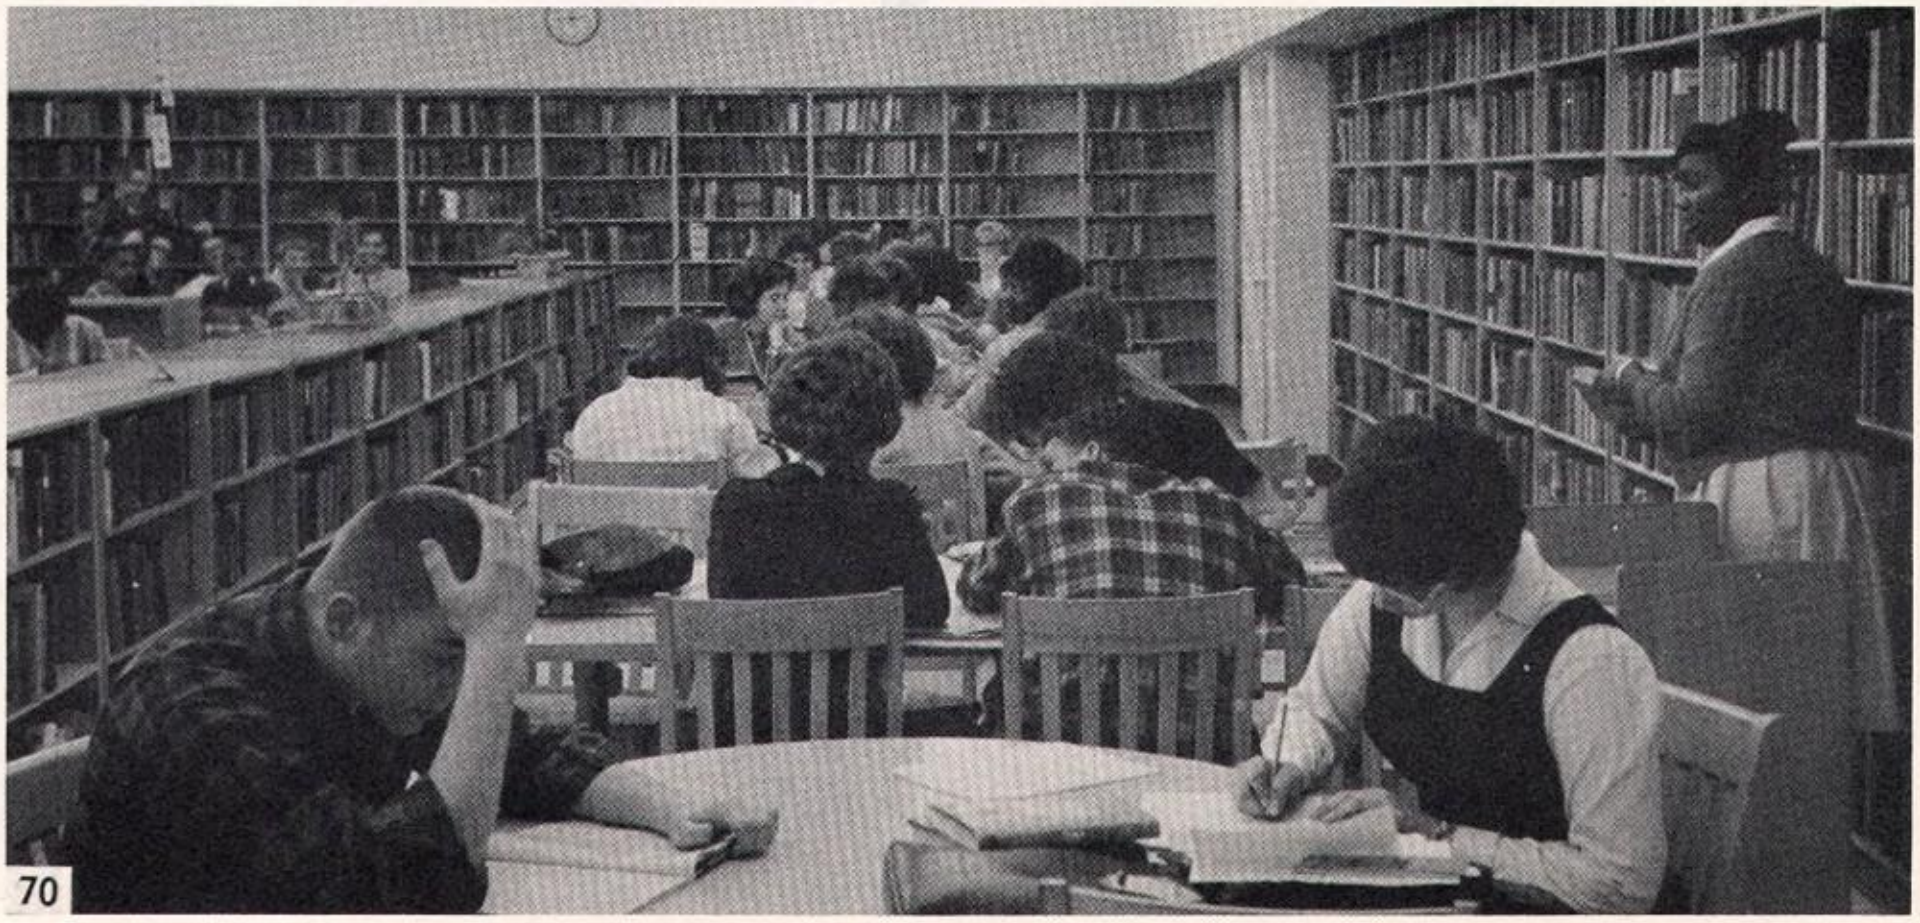
WARREN, DOROTHY: B. A., Montana State University; M. Ed. University of Oregon; teaches Reading Clinic; advises fire squad.

Special Services

Special Services performed in many areas for Jeff students. Each class had two counselors and an activity director who devoted much time to helping them with programming, school problems, and future plans.

Specially trained teachers instructed non-credit courses in reading, speech, or hearing for those students needing further help in any of these.

The library, containing 11, 000 volumes and 100 magazines, now provides tape recorders, phonographs, a listening room for language students, and licensed student movie operators as part of its functions. This year Jeff became the first Portland high school to acquire a micro-film reader, as part of an experiment to determine if such equipment is justifiable. A full-time librarian and two assistants work with students to keep our library functioning smoothly. Rumors float that Jeff may build a new library in the near future.



Material in our library proves invaluable to students.

Are you sick? Do you need an English book? Did your Social Studies teacher tell you to bring a novel to class? Do you need pencils and paper to keep your homework up? Or do you need a football or basketball ticket to go to the game? Which ever one it may be, there is a staff of efficient and diligent secretaries at Jefferson to see that these items and many more are taken care of for Jefferson Students.

Demos are lucky to have the staff that Jeff has with them. The important items, such as transcripts, attendence records, textbook distribution, permanent records, the library, and the student store are only a few of the important things that need the help given by this superb staff here at Jefferson.

Mildred Melcher, Barbara Jacobus, and Viola Runyon.

Effie Bastron, Lenora Mashburn, and Jessie Chilton.

Staff Spends Many Hours Preparing Food

The cafeteria comes alive as early as six o'clock in the morning when the cafeteria staff begins its work to prepare tempting and wholesome lunches for the 2100 Jefferson students. Demos will find everything from sandwiches and hot plate lunches to ice cream cones and homemade pies ready and waiting when that lunch bell rings.

Under the guiding hand of Mrs. Runyon, the industrious staff prepares meals along a pre-planned schedule to suit the appetites of the students. Student workers may gain experience by helping in either or both lunch periods.

Daphan Gilber, Marian Stanick, and Elizabeth Lawson.

Litterbugs Fight Losing Battle Against Courageous Custodians

Group 1: Otto Giesek, Eugene Anderson, Richard Moore, Richard Weinman, John Eaton, William Snowden.

Sweep, repair, trim. Around the hallowed halls and grounds of Jefferson they work to keep the school in tip-top shape.

They keep things in order and watch students have a good time at every game, dance, or social function. They help set up the lights and line the field so our football team may play. The lawns and flowers stay beautiful because they keep them so. When a student forgets something, they let him in to obtain it.

These workers are the fourteen custodians and one matron who make up our efficient custodian staff under the supervision of Mr. McIntyre. The staff deserves a lot of thanks.

Group 2: Kaymond Ahlstrom, Gordon Ronning, Richard Grocott, Mildred Elkins, Jack Queener, Kenneth Banister, John McGraw.

Jeff's P.T.A. Willingly Performs Many Useful Services

The Jefferson High School PTA, composed of Jeff Moms and Dads, had a very active year. To begin the school year, the parents of the PTA helped with freshman orientation, which was appreciated by all. They also served coffee to the faculty at the beginning of school, and helped out with the hard but appreciated task of physicals for the boys and girls at Jefferson. The diligent help of the PTA in the manning of the hot-dog, donuts, coffee, and pop booths at the football games deserves great credit to all who participated. As if these activities were not enough to keep the PTA very busy, they also helped to administer the ITED Tests, helped on the Sabine Oral Vaccine Clinic, and the annual bloodmobile. Perhaps the largest accomplishment of our wonderful PTA this year, was the presentation of the full tution scholarships of $250 to an able senior.

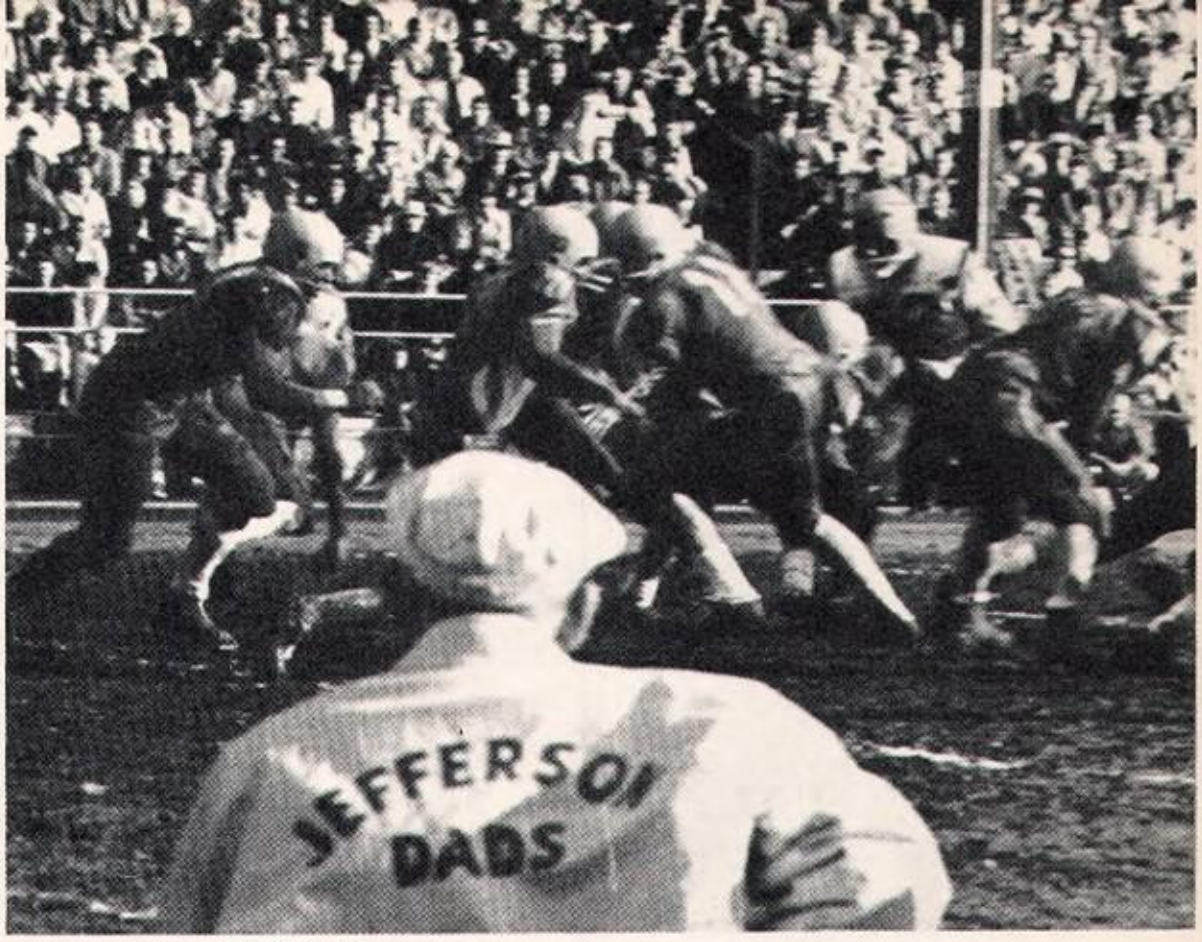
Energetic Dads Work Hard to Boost Jeff's Activities



A Jefferson dad cheers our team on to victory.

"If you need me I'll be there..." may be the lyrics of a song, but it could also be the motto of the Jefferson Dad's Club.

The yellow slickered, name-buttoned Dads are a familiar and welcome sight at Jeff from the very first football game to the last after-game dance. Our Dad's perform many unknown tasks at Jeff, ranging from helping with the scholarship assembly to the annual Spring Music Festival.

Dads have their own social activities too. The annual Dad-Daughter Banquet, where Dads and Daughters perform in a fashion show, in an evening of fun and companionship that helps the Daughters to see that their dads are human too. The Mom and Pop Hop gives the parents and faculty a chance to become acquainted with one another and the type of entertainment that is offered to students at dances. The Fall and Spring Golf Tourneys provide the Dads with a legitimate chance to "talk to Junior's teacher" and have a good game of golf at the same time. All of these activities are enjoyed by parents, students, and faculty alike.

The Spring Music Festival, the major activity of the Dads for the spring, is the biggest money making project for scholarships, and for the purchase of athletic equipment and band uniforms at Jeff. Our Dads play the main role in sponsoring the program, selling the tickets, and publicizing the Festival.

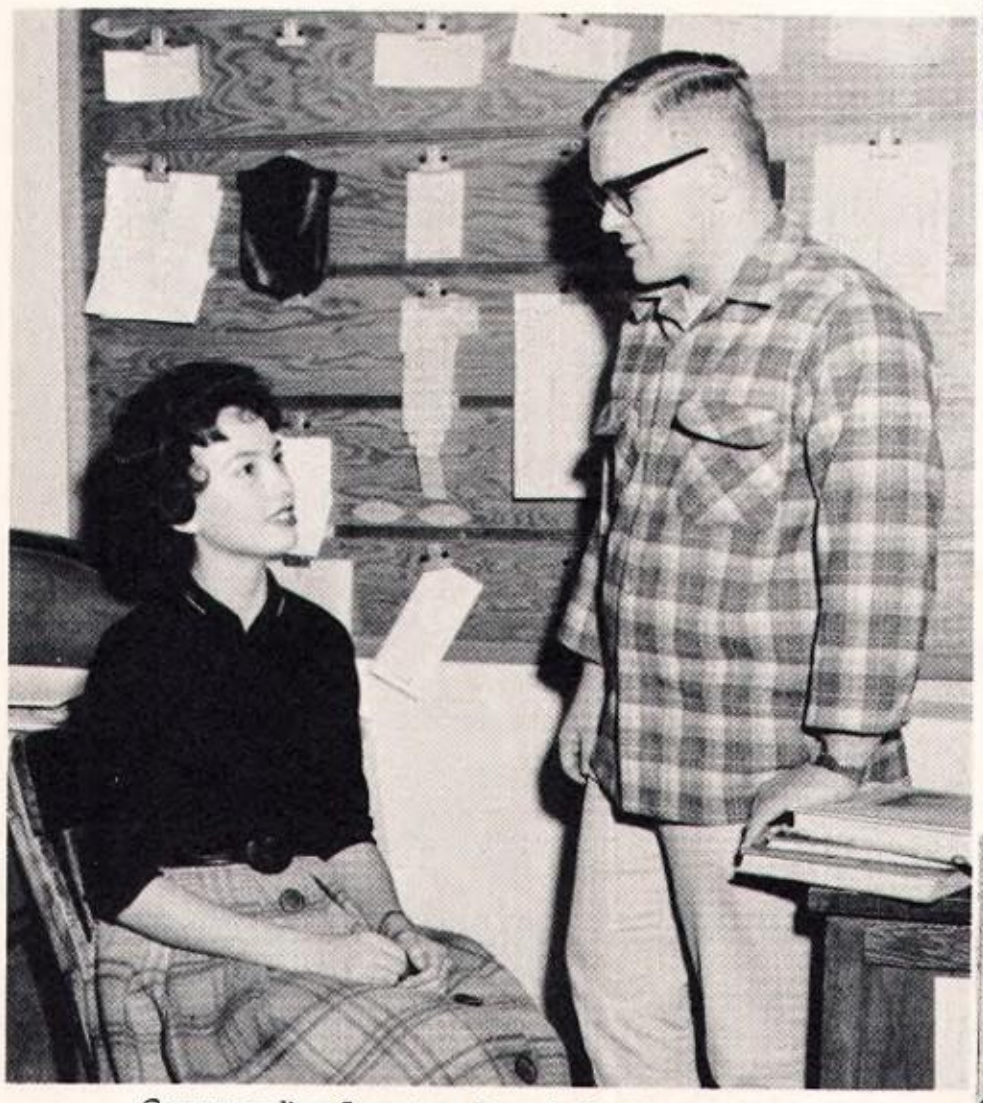
STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT LEN CLARKE AND VICE-PRESIDENT CHERYL GIBSON

Fall Officers Guide Student Body

Anyone dropping in the Student Body office before or after school is apt to see Jeff's fall Student Body Secretary hard at work at her typewriter. Kathy's enthusiasm and willingness to work showed in the work she did so capably.

Her fellow-officer, Athletic Representative Larry Forsythe, is always on hand when students need information about the hall patrol or the Athletic Committee. His official duties included the compiling of a scrap book of athletic events occuring during his term.

Secretary Kathleen Hagey and Athletic Representative Larry Forsythe.



Corresponding Secretary Beverly Brooks and Chaplain Charles Anderson.

Bev Brooks, our corresponding secretary, worked hand in hand with Kathy Hagey to keep our records and correspondence up to date. Quiet cooperation enabled her to contribute greatly to the unity of the Student Body Officers.

Although the Chaplain's office is not an elective position, the person who fills this office is an important part of the cabinet. Charles Anderson was chosen from Youth For Christ to lead the meetings in this post.

Treasurer Wayne Turnbull has a good head for figures, as is shown by the neat books he keeps. His capabilities are evident in the many offices he has previously held.

Enthusiasm is a much-needed quality for the job of Service Manager; and that enthusiasm was supplied this fall by Chuck Kersey. In a far-reaching clean-up campagin, great strides were made in keeping our cafetria clean.

Some night after school if you happen to linger in the halls, you might hear, coming from one of the rooms, the voice of the sixteen-member-group that represents the various departments of the Student Body Officers and the Room Representatives.

Students Devote Their Time to School Service

When you hear the fire alarm ring and the air raid bell sound, you will see, coming from all the rooms of the school, the many diligent workers that make up the Jefferson Fire Squad.

Eager to help and willing to put in much of the needed time that it takes to make a fire squad successful, these people guide the students out of the school and also see that the windows and doors in the rooms are correctly closed.

Membership in the Fire Squad is open to all students willing to help serve their school and promote its safety.

ATHLETIC

Our fall Student Body Committees, made up of volunteer students, serve quietly behind the scenes of all student body functions. Any student is eligible to serve on these committees; all that he need do is sign up on the sheet provided in center hall.

The social and publicity committees cover events ranging from the Roosevelt High School Band Benefit Dance to the annual Christmas Formal. They plan the decorations, refreshments, and publicity for these events, carrying their tasks through with wonderful results.

The Agenda Committee may be seen busily typing ballots, notices, and any other work to be done. To help the treasurer keep accounts straight, the Audit Committee is prepared to assist him. Last but not least, the Athletic Committee plans our intra-mural sports programs.

Spring Offices Held by Capable Leaders

Letter-writing, the main duty of the corresponding secretary, seems to come naturally to Kay VanderMaas, for she performed her primary duties well. Her willingness to assist Joan in her regular secretarial work was greatly appreciated.

Dependability and cooperation are the keynotes for the office of Treasurer. Holly Phipps combines his well-known friendliness with these "keys" to insure a job well done.

Corresponding Secretary Kay VanderMaas and Treasurer Holly Phipps.

Secretary Joan Holstrom and Athletic Representative John Bolzell.

Reading minutes of the previous meeting, keeping track of attendance at room representative meetings, and heading the agenda committee are all part of busy Joan Holstrom's duties as secretary.

Eagerness to do a good job is a prime quality in any Student Body Officer, and John Bolzell used this quality in his job as Athletic Representative to do a wonderful job. He completed his duties quickly and efficiently, and was willing to help any other officer on the staff.

Taking over where Fall Service Manager Chuck Kersey left off, Cary Young carried through and added to his regular duties. Helping President Tom Peterson maintain order and the Service Committee kept Cary active in our government.

Ed Yakimchick took over the post of Chaplain this Spring. The Chaplain's part in the Student Body is to lead the students in prayer before the room representative meetings, a role Ed fulfilled well.

Many people say, "Spring is in the air," and this may well be true. But, this does not stop the hard working Exec-Council from carrying out the responsibilities that weigh upon them, even when the temptations to get outside become too difficult to resist. This group takes care of the business that is not important enough to come before the Room Reps, but can not be done by the Student Body Officers alone.

Miss Merry Christmas

In a setting of silver bells and Christmas trees, Miss Merry Christmas and her court reigned over the 1961 Christmas Formal, "Enchanting Chimes." One of the year's biggest events, the formal also boasted one of the largest attendances in years.

At a special Student Body Cabinet meeting, names of possible candidates from each grade were brought up and discussed. From these, two senior girls and one girl from each of the other three classes were chosen. The room representatives then voted by ballot for the girl of their choice. Until the night of the dance, the identity of Miss Merry Christmas is a closely guarded secret.

Holiday spirit prevails over the Christmas formal, the dance of the year.

Court Reigns Over Holiday Festivities

Red hearts and pink and white flowers transformed the cafeteria into a "Sweetheart's Surprise" for the annual Valentine dance, held this year after the home basketball game against Washington. A hush fell over the dancers as the Vice-President announced this year's Sweetheart Court. Each class president escorted his class's choice down a student thronged aisle to seats of honor on the stage. After the formal introductions, this year's sweethearts, Senior Carolyn Joyner, Junior Lovina Crooks, Sophomore Karen Van Beek, and Freshman Judy Hellervik, danced the traditional court dance with their escorts.

The delegates from each class, after much discussion, nominate three candidates to represent them. During their lunch periods, the members of each class vote by ballot for their choice.

Spring Committees Execute

The spring committees, as did those in the fall, served as the backbone and labor force for the many school activities at Jeff. The social committee planned and organized all social events, while the publicity committee informed students of them through posters and notices. The audit and agenda committees helped the treasurer and secretary. This year the service committee, in addition to centering efforts to keep the school clean, organized a new hall patrol.

Youth Center and School Dances Contribute to Weekly Enjoyment

"Toys for Tots" carries out its theme by charging one toy suitable for a child as admission. Sponsored by Trails during the Christmas season, this Youth Center turned out as one of the year's most successful.

Student-operated and sponsored by clubs or classes, Youth Center provided wholesome fun and relaxation for many students. On alternate Wednesday nights, students danced to records, played active games, or watched the occasional entertainment.

Special Youth Center cards, sold at the beginning of the year, or a student body card plus a quarter make up the admission charges.

Cowboys, a big red barn, and scenes right out of a town from the Old West greeted the freshmen as "Howdy Hop" began the year. The Christmas formal, "Enchanting Chimes," had one of its largest attendances. To help raise money to send the Roosevelt band to the Shrine game, Jeff sponsored a joint dance with the Teddies.

Clubs, classes, and the student body sponsored these after-game dances and specials. Enthusiasm, hard work, and new ideas behind-the-scenes for decorations resulted in fun for many Demos.

The school assemblies at Jefferson require the hard work of many people. Throughout the year the stage crew, choir and orchestra, the drama department, the faculty, and the administration work together with the students to produce school assemblies that are magnificent in content. Jeffersonians, are often left speechless by the enthralling music, singing, and speeches that students present in assemblies. These assemblies offer students many different types of enjoyment, ranging from lectures on serious problems to musical presentations that are gay and bright. While providing a break from classroom work, these assemblies also benefit the students educationally.

Choir Entertains at School and Local Affairs

Robed in the traditional blue and gold colors of Jefferson High, the Senior Choir, composed of approximately sixty students, sang their way through a medley of songs this year. Songs from lighthearted to spiritual tunes found their way into the hearts of more than 2000 Jeffersonians during the Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies under the direction of Mr. Merle Lotz.

This year's engagement took these music-minded students to Barne's Hospital in Vancouver, Washington, and the All-City Choral Festival at the auditorium where they sang to an accompaniment by our orchestra. Our blue and gold warblers had the honor of singing for Martin Luther King's program at the Public Auditorium. In March they sang at the Elementary Music Festival, held in our auditorium. They joined with, orchestra, and choral groups from Jeff and elementary schools in the area to provide and evening of entertainment for all.

Said to be one of the finest choirs that Mr. Lotz has conducted in his past years at Jefferson, this choir consists mainly of sophomores and juniors. Therefore Demos can look forward to a fine one next year. For many years the Senior Choir has been one of the finest in the city, and this year proved no exception.

In a surge of patriotism the drums of the orchestra rolled forth with "American Patrol" in honor of Armed Forces Day. Boys dressed in white dinner jackets and girls attired in dress clothes concentrated their efforts to present one of our finest and most enjoyable assemblies. Intended to acquaint students with many types of music, the assembly progressed from "Rosamund Overture" to music from "Exodus". Charles "Chic" Colburn, a Jeff member of the Portland Junior Symphony, played a drum solo. A special guest violinist was Mrs. Hyde, a former Jefferson student and now a member of the Portland Symphony. She presented two numbers, "Jalousie" and "Laughing Violin".

Mr. Charles Bradford conducted the orchestra in many other activities during the year. A ten-piece orchestra ensemble provided music for the drama department's production of "Alice in Wonderland". The group played for the Christmas program, the Dad's Club, and the PTA. They participated in the City-Wide Orchestra Test and combined their talent with other members of the music department to present our annual Spring Music Festival. They also played at commencement ceremonies.

For those interested in more individual playing, they can get together with other members to form an ensemble such as the woodwind trio. These require additional ability, interest, and ambition.

The Jefferson Dance Band played at a number of occasions this year, including the City-wide Explorer Scout Dance and the Oregon News Education Association's annual convention. Live music by this talented group of boys also highlighted the Mom n' Pop Hop, December 8.

Open to interested boys who have taken or are presently taking orchestra or band, the Dance Band specializes in progressive jazz. It receives from the East Coast all of its musical scores. One of similar groups in the city, they can be recognized by their red and black tuxedo jackets worn at all performances. Not necessarily earning credit for the course, the members spend much time and practice to make this group, under the capable instruction of Mr. Bradford, one of the finest representatives to the public that Jefferson has.

Dance Band and Ensemble Contain Finest Demo Musicians

Using "Tuxedo Junction" as their theme and first song, the 1961-1962 Jefferson Ensemble sang their way through the year in a medley of assemblies and engagements. The girls chose bright blue-green embroidered satin dresses as their official outfits to emphasize both Christmas and Spring while the boys wore the familiar white dinner jackets. A novelty tune, "I Got Turkey," sung at the Thanksgiving assembly, proved popular with students and teachers alike.

Our Ensemble consisted of twelve talented vocalists, nine seniors and three junior boys, none of whom are taking it for a credit.

Spring Editor Julia Simko and Fall Editor Veronica Drokes, along with their advisor, Mr. Evans, admire the latest accomplishment of the Jeffersonian staff.

"I need more stories!" "Where will I put this?" "Help!" These familiar expressions ring from the Jeffersonian press room.

Fall Editor Veronica Drokes and Spring Editor Julia Simko took on the task of putting out an informative and entertaining school paper. The fall staff put out an exceptional eight-page Christmas edition filled with the original work of Demos. Beginning in February, the spring staff worked hard to promote Jefferson's high ideals and standards, as well as to inform, through the media of jounalism.

The Jefferson Ushers Corps carries out an important service for the members of the Student Body. The Ushers are seen busily at their stations in the auditorium whenever there are assemblies, programs, and meetings. Some of the jobs that they perform help to keep the auditorium in order. They see that people are seated and pass out programs on special occasions. They deserve much credit for the wonderful job they do.

In August, 1961, Inge Alstrup, this year's exchange student to Jefferson, first met her foster parents the Granvilles.

Inge, 18, is from Denmark near Copenhagen. During her stay here she went sightseeing about the Pacific Northwest and took a trip to California. Very talented, she speaks six languages--English, Danish, French, Norwegian, Swedish, and German.

Her sparkling eyes, warm smile and enthusiasm for her adopted school will long endear her to the many friends who knew her.

The Jefferson High School Red Cross has several activities that occupy their busy schedule. Filling gift boxes to go overseas is one among many of their activities. These are filled with pencils, crayons, soaps, and many other essentials which will ease the plight of oppressed people. Red Cross also exchanges albums and art folders with foreign countries. An enrollment drive, where students are asked to contribute to the children's fund, attracts new members each year. The Red Cross stands ready to aid all the clubs at Jeff since it serves as a deserving source for services.

The Forensic Team at Jefferson this year includes both beginning and advanced students. Each month these students give their intellectual minds a workout in the Portland Forensic League Meets. Also, during the course of the year, these students compete in many other speech meets throughout Oregon, and appear on radio and television panels, symposiums, and in plays.

The Debate Team also engages other schools throughout Portland, discussing a given topic.

Of the many events that the Jefferson students enter this year, serious and humorous readings, impromptu, extemporaneous, pantomine, and after dinner speeches occupied them much of the time. Other events which these hard workers participated in were demonstrative, introduction, announcement, radio, and sales speeches.

SAFETY COMMISSION

The Safety Commission occupies a necessary place in the Student Body at Jefferson. This Commission concerns itself with the Safety of all Jefferson students. The task is a big one. It involves encouraging the interest and pride of all Demos in promoting safety in our school. This commission also works in connection with the Inter-Council High School Safety Council.

This year, a special emphasis has been placed on traffic safety. Each year they have their annual Safety Road-e-o, their most important event.

Assistant Safety Commissioners, Gary Blunk and Ilze Damberg discuss the coming Safety Road-e-o with Head Commissioner, Fran Nelson.

Student assistants do many different types of work throughout the school. As you start at the end of the main hall, where the first of our assistants work in the Vice-Principal's office, students are aiding the Girls' Dean in her many clerical duties. The next office utilizes students to help with the endless task of keeping attendance. Farther down the hall the main office and the counselors' office come into view. Leaving the counseling office and going down the center corridor, you come to the library where these young people shelve books, and check them out to students, just a few of the many jobs that keep our library operating. To the end of the corridor and through the doors, you find the bookroom, where students re-bind well-used books. Near the center of the first floor you find the student store, where the assistants sell essential school supplies .

This year, as in past years, Mr. DeSylvia and Mr. Hull have coached the varsity with all the valuable knowledge that experience can offer. Between them, they developed new twists for basic plays and formulated an effective scoring punch. By using the available material to the best advantage, these two outstanding men continued to prove that Jefferson is the School of Champions.

This year the swim teams finished with hope for next season. The boys' squad sent Scott Black, Mike Burpee and Ross Bumgardner to the State Meet. Hard work and outstanding individual performances were the main characteristics of the team.

Display Spirit and Ability

This years Senior players helped to keep our team in a top ranking position almost entirely through the season. Our offensive and defensive drives were for the most part accurate. With the aid of a top Coach, Mr. Neeley, and a capable captain, Brian Barnes, our senior varsity players upheld the Jefferson spirit of drive and determination.

Coach Neeley Directs Varsity Netters Through Victorious Seas

The Democrats, after having a good season, ended with a 12 win 8 loss record. Included in the wins was one Grant game which was an unhappy upset to the Generals. Our games with the Cleveland Indians were equally good. The hoop-men kept the Indians down to a two point margin, proving the spirit and determination that Coach Neeley had built into his team.

Lanky Wayne Turnbull, much improved Rick Clark, sharp-shooter James Joe, hoopsinker Larry Shephard, ever determined Brian Barnes, forward Bill Bennet, free-shooter Jim Mellema, and always ready Craig Mitchell kept the team vying for second place until the end of the season.

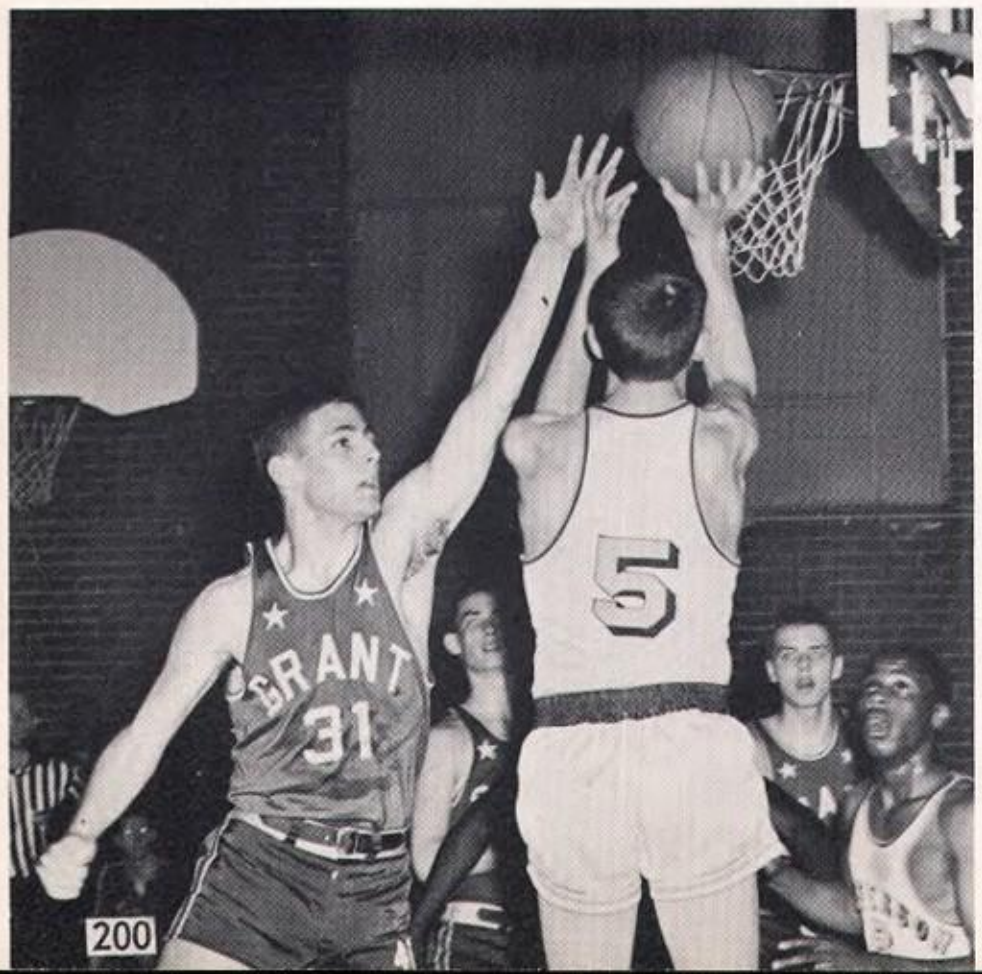
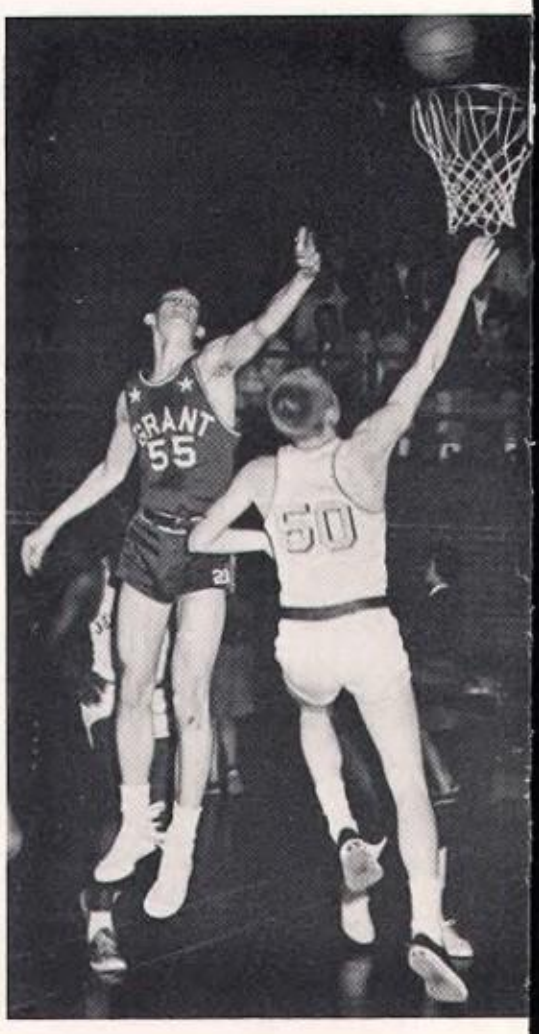
J. V. Scores Victories

The 1961-1962 Jefferson J. V. basketball team ended the season with an outstanding 20-2 win-loss record. Many things can be attributed to the success of the City Champs, the most important factor being their determined will to win. This combined with excellent shooting and superior speed sent many opponents to defeat.

Leading scorers were Lionel Coleman, Fred Elliot, Les Pete, and Pat Hergert.





Spirit Marks Frosh Hoopers

This year's frosh squad won seven and lost three. They finished in third behind Grant and Cleveland whom they claim as their toughest opponents. Gene Lewis, Roger Shephard, Don Huld, Wes Bigham, Ron Coleman, Denny Conley, and Grey Gilligan carried most of the load all season.

Golfers Drive Through Fair Season

The girl's golf team, composed of six members, played all their matches at Rose City Golf Course. Managing few wins, the squad nevertheless learned the fundamentals of competitive play and is looking forward to a much better season next year. Mrs. Hansen did a fine job as coach.

The boy's golf team got off to a very bad start. Lack of practice seemed to be the key factor at the first of the season, but later in the year the squad improved to some degree. Mr. Jones expects his boys to do much better in the future.

Somewhat hampered by lack of experience, the girls' tennis team held only a fair season. Becky Lyons, number one in singles, led the squad in wins with an 8-2 record at the halfway mark. Dee Martin and Nancy Chase will be of great value to the team next year as they improved rapidly. Sherry Thomas and Linda Nelson suffered injuries which kept them sidelined for most of the season.

The boys tennis team was able to nab only a few victories this year. Nearly every boy won a match, but the individual wins did not occur at the same time, therefore the team record was not outstanding.

Strong Seniors Head Baseball Team

Although this year's Baseball team was mainly composed of juniors and sophomores, the few seniors who gained uniforms were instrumental in holding the squad together during periods when the bottom seemed to drop out. Their ambition and determination was only surpassed by their ability and drive. They had faith in the team and in themselves thus producing faith among the younger players. Anchoring the pitching staff and the outfield, they worked hard and gave their all for Jeff.

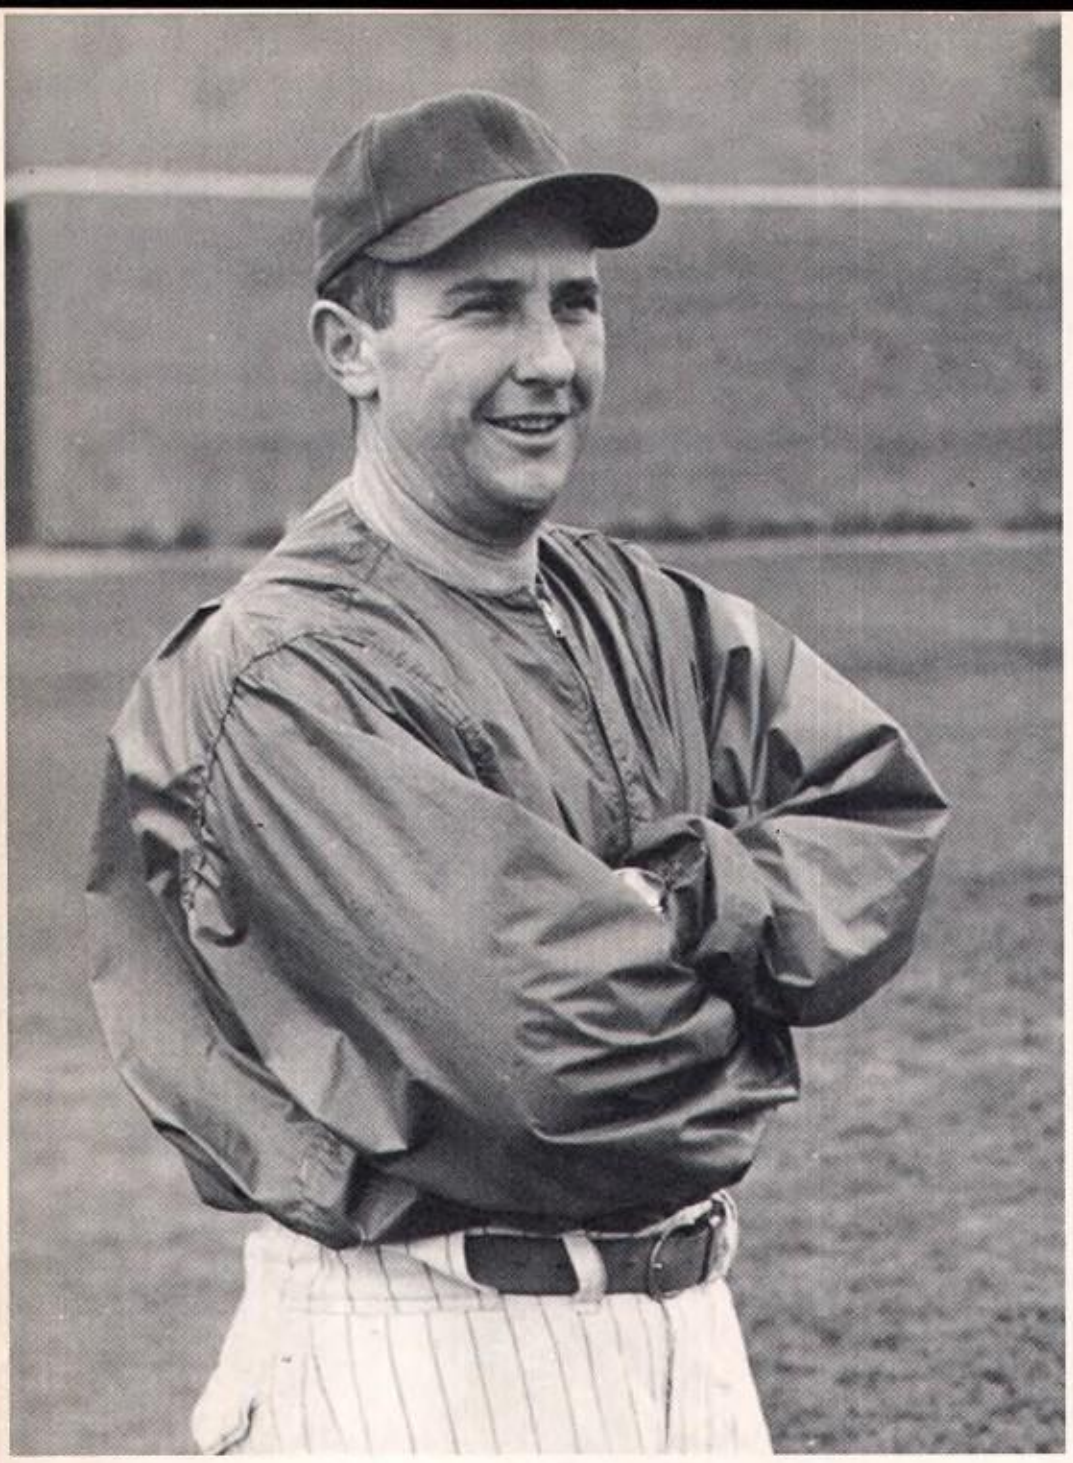
Coach Pienovi Leads Baseball Tea



Andrew Pienovi, Head Coach

The possibility of Jefferson finishing among th leaders of the P. I. L. was apparent from the start Under the capable leadership and coaching ability Andrew Pienovi, the potential ability of the team as whole was turned into a powerful force. Effectiv plays, coupled with good sportsmanship and team spiri combined to produce runs and wins.

The pitching staff composed of five upperclassma showed great promise. Led by relief pitcher Ke Price, the staff was able to quell many opposing scor ing threats. Seniors Delmar Tacker and Jim Mellema and juniors Al Panek and Jack Humphrey participate in starting roles.

The infield, all juniors with the exception of senior Craig Mitchell, second base, and Dick Dahlager catcher, came up with some spectacular plays to hi light consistent performances. Doug Ryan, third base was instrumental in maintaining team spirit while Mik Pete, first base, and Ward Spradlin, shortstop bolstered the hitting power.

The outfield combined speed, maneuverability stamina, and drive to spoil "big innings" for man opponents. Leo Montgomery, a powerful hitter, Le Clarke, Ron Sedillo, Jody McFerrian, Eddie Ell, Ba Wilson, and Ray Brown comprised the fielding force Picked by the experts to finish far down in the race the Democrats proved themselves worthy of praise b wanting to win. . . and doing it!

Ameca was formed for the purpose of meeting together at various social functions and at the same time to do services for the school.

Some of the social functions have been sponsoring Youth Centers, selling pop at the Coney Island Carousel in March and joints with clubs from other schools around the city.

Setting up the PTA hot dog stand at all home football games and taking down tables in the cafeteria prior to all school dances are just two of the many services Ameca performed for Jefferson.

A club with a long tradition of services to community and school, Guako gave much of their time in helping others, including providing a food basket at Thanksgiving for a needy family and filling Red Cross boxes at Christmas time to be sent overseas. School services included the annual polishing of pianos, distribution of Christmas posters and decoration of the main hall bulletin board.

Members also had a full schedule of social activities, with a successful rummage sale, a roller skating party and an after-game slumber party, firesides, teas, and with a balloon sale at Coney Island, on the agenda.

Jason Lee, a social-service club at Jefferson, is known throughout the school as "a typical club," because they had a very busy and successful year sponsoring several Youth Centers and after game dances. Aside from the many busy hours they spent in doing services for the school, the club participated in many other activities during the year. They had several joints with other schools and maintained a booth at Coney Island Carousel.

Klatawa, whose colors are blue and silver, and whose flower is a white carnation, had a busy year with many services and activities. As services to the school and community, Klatawa members filled Red Cross baskets, decorated the bulletin board, polished the trophies in center hall, and had their annual spring rummage sale. These services all proved a great success. Aside from the many services that these girls performed, many activities also occupied much of their time. The girls recognized Klatawa Day, perhaps one of the biggest of their activities, by wearing the letterman sweaters of the lettermen in the school on the days we played Grant High in all different sports.

To fulfill their purpose, Kosmo performed such services as collecting materials for a retarded childrens' school, decorating the main hall bulletin board and distributing Christmas Seal posters to stores for display.

Kosmo also provides many social activities for its members. This year's busy schedule included a slumber party before school began, a bakery chain and bake sale, car-washes, open house, joints, a booth in Coney Island Carousel, and a Senior Banquet.

"Those hard working girls" correctly describes the girls in Philia. Given this name because they always seem to be busily working around the school, Philia members performed many services. Philo's motto of love, life, and loyalty is evident in all the activities in which they participate. Philo girls may be seen performing any service for Jefferson. An example of this was seen in their gaily decorated booth at Coney Island Carousel. A bake sale was held by Philo members, who have also taken part in joints with other clubs. The white rose, the official Philo flower is symbolic of the activities of the club.

Originally a hiking club, hence its name, Trails has now become a prominent social service club at Jeff. Approximately 30 members helped to carry out its purpose throughout the year to help school and community through service.

Service included filling Red Cross boxes, serving at the third annual Dad-Daughter Banquet, and sponsoring the "Toys for Tots" Youth Center during the Christmas season. Christmas caroling, joints, and a planned hike in the spring formed a part of their activities.

Twill, whose major purpose is to create friendliness, started the year out by sponsoring the Annual Orphan Pancake Supper jointly with Zequinn. Twill members donated much of their time from their many busy hours as they performed many services in and around the Community. The most important of the services that Twill took part in was the sponsoring of an orphan, Oh Haing Ja. This service is done jointly with Zequinn each year. They sent $100 dollars overseas to help send an orphan to America.

To promote service to the school and community, and to get acquainted with other students throughout the city sums up the purpose of Vega.

This year Vega decorated the field and patrolled all home football games, and on the morning of Christmas Eve, delivered food packages for the Salvation Army.

Sponsoring after game dances, joints, and the disc jockey booth at the Coney Island Carousel took care of a few of their activities.

Among the many qualities that best express the purpose of Zequinn are Unity and Service. As services to the community, the members of Zequinn filled a Thanksgiving basket and sent an appliance to a needy family at Christmas. To assure the needed money to sponsor a Korean orphan, the Zequinn members, together with the Twill members, had a Pancake Dinner at the Y. M. C. A. Aside from services, Zequinn girls also had many social activities. To celebrate Halloween and the ghosts and the goblins, a dance was held on the Willamette River with an old barge as the setting to complete an enjoyable evening. Other activities were the Mother Daughter tea, an Alumni Tea, and many joints and friendships.

Initiations?

Zeta girls give Tom a bath.

Zeta features the long line in spring fashions.

Begun as a girls' debating team in 1911, Zeta holds the title as the oldest girls' club at Jeff. Now a social -service club, light-hearted debate from time to time is still carried on by its friendly members.

Services included ticket taking at Coney Island, service for the Lettermen's Banquet, filling a Thanksgiving basket and Red Cross boxes. Each fall and spring new members wash the statue of Jefferson with toothbrushes.

Busy members participated in coke chats, joints, a slumber party, a car wash, a Youth Center, and an after-game dance.

"To further promote interest and understanding in all world situations and programs." This best expresses the purpose of IRL whose members can always be seen busily working around the school to carry out this motto; the members of IRL worked hard to put on the Foreign Exchange Student Assembly which proved highly successful. Included in this assembly were foreign exchange students from all the corners of the earth. Among the other activities that the IRL members took part in was the trip to the University of Oregon for the state-wide IRL conference. At the conference the students had many round table discussions on disarmament.

The Latin Club of Jefferson High was formed this year by students interested in the language and history of the Roman peoples. Its purpose is to create increased interest in the Latin language and to give anyone an opportunity to belong to a club.

The Roman Banquet, held in the basement of adviser Mrs. Kirkwood's home, featured students dressed in togas and stolas, and authentic Roman food and tapestries.

To promote the general welfare of instrumental music and fellowship among the members of the Jefferson band and orchestra, the Hi-Note Club was re-organized with the cooperation of advisor Mr. Bradford. Many band members felt that some steps should be taken to interest other Jeffersonians in music and change the general opinion about it. The 15 members of the club see music as skill which takes hard work but becomes an extremely rewarding activity rather than as a "drag."

Hi-Note had many money-making projects, including two successful car washes, a candy sale, and a planned "car smash" if possible.

A Halloween party, Christmas caroling with a get-together afterwards, a senior banquet, and joints with other school music clubs rounded out the activities of the club.

CLUBS.....A STATEMENT

Social Service Clubs have been in existance at Jeff since 1911. Since then many clubs have come and gone. At the present time there are fourteen social service clubs plus numerous special interest clubs.

The main purpose of a club is to render service to its school as the members find friends and loyalties that they will cherish the rest of their lives. Each club has a purpose stated in its charter.

The many activities which the club members do for the school are distributed to all of the clubs. Services such as cleaning the trophies and trophy cases, putting up refreshment booths at the football games, taking down old posters and serving coffee to the faculty are just a few of the things the social service clubs do.

Interest clubs focus on topics ranging from chess to woodworking. Each club selects one interest on which to concentrate. In this way members all have a certain thing in common. They also have a project which is a climax to the year. The Latin Banquet, I.R.L. exchange student assembly, and the Pep Club performance at the Shriner's football game are some of these projects.

The clubs add variety to the student's school life while rendering service to the school.

RHODES

HI-BOARD

REPRESENTATIVE

Being on the Hi-Fashion Board at Rhodes this year has been an experience I shall never forget. I shall always remember the wonderful people I met and worked with. There was never a time when someone wasn't there to help or assist you when in need. I know next year's Hi-Board representative will thrill to the experience set before her and I only hope she enjoys it as much as I have. Thank you for that opportunity.
